

DSLMA Annual Report 2006-2007

- DSLMA continued to support the Teachers as Readers program
- The Yahoo address dslmapresident@yahoo.com was created in an effort to make communication easier and more accessible, and to create continuity from president to president.

- The Yahoo Group was created to allow librarians from the entire state to ask questions and share successes. Better yet, all of the conversations are stored online, and you can search the threads for specific information. All of the agendas, minutes, and other documents important to the organization are stored there for easy access as well.

- We had our second year of the DSLMA mini-grant. The winner was Kathy Lindemer with her proposal of "Using Technology to Promote Reading and Writing."

- DSLMA took a bus to the Book Festival in Washington, DC.

- We had the first "summit" meeting with other library leaders in the state to discuss our common goals and what we can do to reach them more efficiently together.

- I attended the SirsiDynix Conference in Colorado to learn more about the statewide library catalog and School Rooms, both of which DSLMA voted to support.

- At each meeting, we provided professional development on various topics added by webmaster:

Jane Stewart is the new President.

*Jamie Alascia
DSLMA President
dslmapresident@yahoo.com*